INDEX TO VOLUME XXIII (1962)

(Names of Contributors appear in SMALL CAPITALS)

Absolute space, Newton's concept of, 279–281
Aesthetic tradition, the, Henry James on, 407–419
AFRICA, THOMAS W., 282–292
America, v. Dewey, Hegelianism, Hurst, Lamarckianism
Angels, Renaissance views on, 265–267
Aporias, the, in Plato's early dialogues, 163–174
Aristotle, his conception of contract, 257–264; on logical topics, 307–323 passim
Aristotelianism, in Bacon's Novum Organum, 435–450
Astronomy, see Copernicus
Augustine, Saint, his rhetoric of silence, 175–196
Austin, John, and Locke, on the idea of morality, 141–142
Bacon, Francis, Aristotelianism in his Novum Organum, 435–450
BARON, HANS, 143–146
BERLAND, ALWYN, 407–419
BIRD, OTTO, 307–323
Bolingbroke, new light on his Letters on History, 550–557
Boyle, Robert, and Henry More, on the spirit of nature, 451–474
Burlamaqui, J.-J., and Rousseau, 420–423
CALDWELL, R. L., 545–549
Calvinism, and witchcraft, in Elizabethan England, 21–36
Cambridge Platonism, see Cudworth
CARR, ROBERT, 475–495
COCHRANE, ERIC W., 61–76
COHEN, MAURICE H., 163–174
COLISH, MARCIA L., 3–20
Conciliarism, 15th-century, Marsilius of Padua's influence on, 392–402
Copernican system, the, reaction to, among French Renaissance writers, 107–116
Copernicus, the scientific revolution, and late medieval thought, 197–220
Cudworth, Ralph, and Descartes, 133–140
DEL VECCHIO, GIORGIO, 420–423
Descartes, René, and Cudworth, 133–140
Dewey, John, and the University of Michigan, 513–544
DYKHUIZEN, GEORGE, 513–544
EASTON, LOYD D., 355–378
Education, some ideas on, before Locke, 403–406; v. Dewey
Eighteenth century, v. Bolingbroke, Burlamaqui, Helvétius, Holbach, Newton, Reid, Rousseau, Tuscany
Elizabethan England, witchcraft and Calvinism in, 21–36
ELLIS, BRIAN D., 273–278
England, v. Austin, Bacon, Bolingbroke, Boyle, Calvinism, Cudworth, Locke, Marvell, Mill, Milton, More, Newton, Ockham
Ethics, and the Renaissance epic, 117–132; v. Locke
FISHER, PETER F., 37–60
FISHMAN, STERLING, 379–391
Fourteenth century, v. Marsilius of Padua, Ockham
France, v. Descartes, Helvétius, Holbach, LeRoy, Rousseau, Saint-Gelais
Germany, v. Lassalle
GIVNER, DAVID A., 340–354
GRANT, EDWARD, 197–220
GREENE, ROBERT A., 451–474
GULLACE, GIOVANNI, 91–105
GUNDERSHEIMER, WERNER L., 324–339

INDEX TO VOLUME XXIII (1962)

(Names of Contributors appear in SMALL CAPITALS)

Absolute space, Newton's concept of, 279–281
Aesthetic tradition, the, Henry James on, 407–419
AFRICA, THOMAS W., 282–292
America, v. Dewey, Hegelianism, Hurst, Lamarckianism
Angels, Renaissance views on, 265–267
Aporias, the, in Plato's early dialogues, 163–174
Aristotle, his conception of contract, 257–264; on logical topics, 307–323 passim
Aristotelianism, in Bacon's Novum Organum, 435–450
Astronomy, see Copernicus
Augustine, Saint, his rhetoric of silence, 175–196
Austin, John, and Locke, on the idea of morality, 141–142
Bacon, Francis, Aristotelianism in his Novum Organum, 435–450
BARON, HANS, 143–146
BERLAND, ALWYN, 407–419
BIRD, OTTO, 307–323
Bolingbroke, new light on his Letters on History, 550–557
Boyle, Robert, and Henry More, on the spirit of nature, 451–474
Burlamaqui, J.-J., and Rousseau, 420–423
CALDWELL, R. L., 545–549
Calvinism, and witchcraft, in Elizabethan England, 21–36
Cambridge Platonism, see Cudworth
CARR, ROBERT, 475–495
COCHRANE, ERIC W., 61–76
COHEN, MAURICE H., 163–174
COLISH, MARCIA L., 3–20
Conciliarism, 15th-century, Marsilius of Padua's influence on, 392–402
Copernican system, the, reaction to, among French Renaissance writers, 107–116
Copernicus, the scientific revolution, and late medieval thought, 197–220
Cudworth, Ralph, and Descartes, 133–140
DEL VECCHIO, GIORGIO, 420–423
Descartes, René, and Cudworth, 133–140
Dewey, John, and the University of Michigan, 513–544
DYKHUIZEN, GEORGE, 513–544
EASTON, LOYD D., 355–378
Education, some ideas on, before Locke, 403–406; v. Dewey
Eighteenth century, v. Bolingbroke, Burlamaqui, Helvétius, Holbach, Newton, Reid, Rousseau, Tuscany
Elizabethan England, witchcraft and Calvinism in, 21–36
ELLIS, BRIAN D., 273–278
England, v. Austin, Bacon, Bolingbroke, Boyle, Calvinism, Cudworth, Locke, Marvell, Mill, Milton, More, Newton, Ockham
Ethics, and the Renaissance epic, 117–132; v. Locke
FISHER, PETER F., 37–60
FISHMAN, STERLING, 379–391
Fourteenth century, v. Marsilius of Padua, Ockham
France, v. Descartes, Helvétius, Holbach, LeRoy, Rousseau, Saint-Gelais
Germany, v. Lassalle
GIVNER, DAVID A., 340–354
GRANT, EDWARD, 197–220
GREENE, ROBERT A., 451–474
GULLACE, GIOVANNI, 91–105
GUNDERSHEIMER, WERNER L., 324–339

Hegelianism, in 19th-century Ohio, 355–378
Helvétius, and D'Holbach, 221–238
Heraclitus of Ephesus, Lassalle on, 379–391
History, v. Bolingbroke, LeRoy, Toynbee
Holbach, D', and Helvétius, 221–238
Humanism, Christian, see Vives
Humanistic optimism, in Louis LeRoy, 324–339
Hurst, J. W., Law and Social Process in United States History, reviewed, 558–564
Individualism, in the mid-19th century, 77–90
Italian tradition, and French literature, in the 18th-century Tuscany, 61–76
Italy, the pragmatist movement in, 91–105; v. Cochrane, Marsilius of Padua, Renaissance epic
Jacob, E. F., ed., Italian Renaissance Studies, reviewed, 143–146
James, Henry, and the aesthetic tradition, 407–419
LADD, EVERETT C., JR., 221–238
Lamarckianism, in American social science, 239–256
Language, John Locke's philosophy of, 340–354
LARSEN, ROBERT E., 435–450
Lassalle, Ferdinand, on Heraclitus of Ephesus, 379–391
Law, v. Aristotle, Hurst
LeRoy, Louis, his Humanistic optimism, 324–339
Linguistics, v. Locke
Literature, French, and the Italian tradition in 18th-century Tuscany, 61–76; and astronomy, in 16th-century France, 107–116; v. Augustine, James, Renaissance epic
Locke, and John Austin, on the idea of morality, 141–142; his philosophy of language, 340–354; on education, 403–406 passim
Logic, Milton on, 37–60
Logical topics, the tradition of, from Aristotle to Ockham, 307–323
Marsilius of Padua, his influence on 15th-century conciliarism, 392–402
Marvell, Andrew, on religion, 268–272
MAZZEO, JOSEPH ANTHONY, 175–196
Medieval thought, and Copernicus, and the scientific revolution, 197–220
Methodism, in Marvell's thought, 268–272
Mill, J. S., the religious thought of, 475–495
More, Henry, and Robert Boyle, on the spirit of nature, 451–474
Motive force, Newton's concept of, 273–278
NADEL, GEORGE H., 550–557
Nature, human, Vives on, 3–20; the spirit of, More and Boyle on, 451–474
Newton, Isaac, his concept of motive force, 273–278; his concept of absolute space, 279–281
Nineteenth century, v. Austin, Dewey, Hegelianism, Individualism, James, Lamarckianism, Lassalle, Mill, Uppsala school
Ockham, William of, on the logical topics, 307–323 passim
PARSONS, TALCOTT, 558–564
PATRIDES, C. A., 265–267
Philosophy, the Scottish school of common-sense, and Thomas Reid, 545–549; v. Aristotle, Aristotelianism, Austin, Bacon, Boyle, Cudworth, Descartes, Dewey, Ethics, Hegelianism, Helvétius, Heraclitus of Ephesus, Holbach, Individualism, Locke, Logic, Mill, More, Ockham, Plato, Pragmatism, Reid, Uppsala school, Vives
Physics, v. Newton
Plato, the aporias in his early dialogues, 163–174

Political theory, v. Burlamaqui, Helvétius, Holbach, Marsilius of Padua, Rousseau
Pragmatism, in Italy, 91–105
Rabinowitz, Margula, 279–281
Reid, Thomas, and the Scottish school of common-sense philosophy, 545–549
Religion, in Marvell's thought, 268–272; Mill on, 475–495
Renaissance, the, epic, and ethics, 117–132; views of angels, 265–267; v. Saint-Gelais
Rhetoric, of silence, St. Augustine's, 175–196
Ridgely, Beverly S., 107–116
Robbins, Caroline, 268–272
Rousseau, J. J., and Burlamaqui, 420–423
Sailor, Danton B., 133–140
Saint-Gelais, Mellin de, and the first vernacular reference to the Copernican system in France, 107–116
Sandin, Robert T., 496–512
Scepticism, in J. S. Mill's religious thought, 475–495
Scientific revolution, the, and Copernicus, 197–220
Scotland, v. Reid
Seventeenth century, v. Bacon, Boyle, Cudworth, Descartes, Locke, Marvell, Milton, More, Newton
Shuchman, Philip, 257–264
Sigmund, Paul E., Jr., 392–402
Sixteenth century, v. Calvinism, LeRoy, Saint-Gelais, Vives
Smith, Constance I., 141–142; 403–406
Social science, American, Lamarckianism in, 239–256
Steadman, John M., 117–132
Stocking, George W., Jr., 239–256
Swart, Koenraad W., 77–90
Teall, John L., 21–36
Theology, v. Angels, Augustine, Calvinism, Marvell
Toynbee, Arnold, Reconsiderations, reviewed, 282–292
Tuscany, 18th-century, French literature and the Italian tradition in, 61–76
Twentieth century, v. James, Lamarckianism, Pragmatism, Uppsala school
Uppsala school, the, the founding of, 496–512
Vives, Juan Luis, on the nature of man, 3–20
Witchcraft, and Calvinism, in Elizabethan England, 21–36

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We wish to acknowledge with thanks the generous editorial collaboration of the following scholars during 1962: Thomas W. Africa, Nathan Berall, Hans Baron, Blanchard W. Bates, Ludwig Edelstein, Julius Elias, Edgar Johnson, Charles H. Kahn, Martin A. Kuhn, Henry Magid, William L. Payne, Edward Rosen, H. Standish Thayer, Harry Wolfson, A. S. P. Woodhouse.